Over the past three years we've been using JBusiness Directory on several platforms, from as few as 1,500 listings to over 10,000 on one of them. It is not always super fast, but enough for our needs. At the beginning we had to reach out numerous times to their support department and we are happy with the response time and effectiveness. The price is very little for the quality of the module and the provided support.

We've been working with CMSJunkie for a while now and our experience has been nothing but positive so far. Response to raised tickets usually comes in fast, at times there is a longer wait but doesn't go over a 24 hour timeframe.

One project that we've had with them was to build a business directory with over 5000 listings. The functionality provided Search for answers, access the support forum or read through the user manual and the FAQ sections, exceeded our expectations all in one place.

and fully met our client requirements. We found great value in the product which is continuously updated and maintained. Can't find an answer to your question?

Given the low price and the quality provided You can submit a ticket or request assistance via a forum post.

CMSJunkie is an obvious choice. A big THANK YOU!
