e107 is a free website content management system

e107 is a time-tested open-source website content management system powered by PHP, MySQL and Twitter Bootstrap. It's intuitive user-friendly interface and powerful functionality gives you complete control of your website's content and digital assets via its admin panel, without any knowledge of coding languages such as HTML or Javascript.

Hosted on your own server, the e107 software application comes bundled with a wide range of built-in features - content management tools that content managers can use to have their interactive and mobile-device-friendly website up and running in minutes.

The e107 content delivery application is the platform of choice, an all-in-one solution for basic level content creators needing a simple blog, but also powerful enough for content markets or business users running corporate websites or intranets.

User Reviews

Around 2014 i needed a CMS to do a work, because i didn't have much time. I tested many cms, including: Wordpress, Concrete5, Grav and Drupal, and let me tell you that none of them seemed so powerful and simple as e107: the admin UI, file system organization, the amount of plugins, languages packs, the active support and much more, made e107 my favorite CMS.

I tried Wordpress, Joomla and Drupal and found them difficult and complicated. I've been using the e107 system since version 0.5 because it's simple and flexible. It performs well in all areas, be it a business, gaming or blog site. You can create beautiful templates that other portal systems could only admire. Runs in several places without problems (company, sports club, etc.). e107 is for me excellent.

I have been using this amazing CMS since the early 2000's. Yep, it's been around that long. Any time I have need assistance or have had questions, someone has been there to help or explain. I'd say all in all, I have built easily over 100 sites using e107. To this day I still prefer e107 over other bigger name CMS'. I'm sure most people will find everything from installing to getting your layout the way you want it really intuitive.
